To find happiness, we understand that our life is created for something. Indeed, life cannot be a hazard. It's everywhere. There is no chaos on Earth. So it means that the Universe is ordered. With this regard, you can read Jean Jaurès's thesis, The Reality of the Sensitive World. There is also Planck's pedagogy and his notion of causality.

From the moment we tell ourselves that our life is for something, we are likely to find happiness. So it is about strengthening this will understanding the world. It will be about meditating, to link, so that our reason and our faith are connected, so they speak to us.

So it will be about finding a higher belief, because everyone believes, whether about chaos, money, material, his wife or his man, God. The more we find a belief above the others, the more it will bring our happiness, because, if something is organized, it is because there is a reason.

His belief will, at first, be hypotheses, to be confirmed. Then our soul will give us, then, a higher hypothesis, then other higher hypotheses, depending on the unexplained links.

Then it will bring our happiness, joy or questioning around us every time. It will then be noticed that many do not believe that their lives have any use, in crisis' times. We will give them our happiness, which we understand. If we are not understood, it is about defining.

Doubt is allowed, but it must strengthen our faith. Indeed, if we no longer believe, then we no longer exist, since that would mean that we think nothing.

My Notes

Write about what you believe and don't believe. Review these notes later.
